

DENIM GROUP OFFICE BUILD OUT

Upon the renewal of their lease, Denim Group, a San Antonio based IT consultancy firm, had tenant build out dollars to allocate to their office space. This smaller project revived two conference rooms, one of which has a kitchenette and doubles as a break room. Wiese Hefty tied Denim Group's identity into the materials used for the build out.

The updated dark cabinets, stainless counters and modular flooring create a modern and polished area conducive for both client meetings and employee breaks. The mustard walls with a dark blue accent wall echo the company's brand identity, and smooth stainless trim pulls all of the elements together.

DENIM GROUP OFFICE BUILD OUT

“The single biggest issue with our particular project was that we needed to operate in our office during construction. Their ability to work around us and execute on schedule was really, really important. We had to make sure certain conference rooms were available at certain times, that we had space to move equipment around to certain areas, and ensure that clients were scheduled to come by when there was not going to be any noise or interference. The fact that Wiese Hefty was able to develop and maintain an orderly schedule was really valuable to us.

We are very happy with the outcome of our build out. Clay and Kristin stuck to our strict budget, operated around our tight timeline, and were always readily available if we had any questions along the way.”
